PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The historic legacy of Virginia Union University stretches for more than 151 years. Some have described this journey as a miracle, while others see it as the creation of a “beacon of light” in terms of a small school established in a former slave trading complex following the end of the Civil War that still stands proudly and continues to be strong today.

The first graduates were preachers and missionaries. Never in their wildest dreams could Virginia Union’s founding fathers have imagined the widespread influence of their beloved school. Virginia Union University has expanded its educational footprint to every arena imaginable.

Since 1865, we have seen our alumni make significant contributions in the fields of medicine, business, the arts, athletics, education, science, theology, and public service. None of these contributions to our city, state, and nation would have been possible without the passionate and continuing support of our donors. As a result, the 2016 issue of the Virginia Union University President’s Report is dedicated to all of our alumni and friends who include us in their budget, so generously, year after year. This untethered support makes it possible not only to change the lives of Virginia Union students, but the lives of entire families are uplifted with each scholarship that you provide.

This year’s report is presented in three sections: 1) the legacy of giving, 2) the legacy of academic excellence, and 3) the legacy of leadership. You will meet several very special persons who are representative of a much larger community of Virginia Union alumni, faculty, staff, and students. On behalf of the entire Virginia Union family, it is my honor to wish you God’s blessing in the New Year.

Let us continue our steadfast efforts to keep the legacy alive for many generations to come.

With Warm Regards,

Joseph F. Johnson, Ed.D.
Acting President

THE LEGACY OF GIVING

“An HBCU education speaks to the core of who you are as an individual. It speaks to your uniqueness as an African American. You need to know your heritage, how perfect your ancestors were, and how we arrived at this place.”

DR. CHARLES BAUGHAM

Charles Baugham grew up picking cotton in Rich Square, North Carolina. “I didn’t know how I was going to do it, but I knew I didn’t want to spend the rest of my life on a farm,” he says. Virginia Union University (VUU) opened the door to a new life for Baugham and he never forgets it. “Virginia Union helped me get to where I am,” Baugham says. “I want to make sure others have the same opportunity.”

Dr. Charles Baugham is 72-years-old now, and the retired pastor of St. James Baptist Church in Caroline County, Virginia still fondly recalls his undergraduate days at VUU. “I loved chapel,” recalls Baugham. “I was always fascinated by the great minds that came to speak at VUU.” Baugham’s favorite professor was Dr. Stephen Romanoff. “He was brilliant. He taught language arts, music, physics, and science. I was just astounded at his brilliance.”

Baugham made his first donation to his beloved alma mater in 1970, two years after graduation. He has made donations to Virginia Union University every single year for more than 45 years. The gifts to VUU continued even while he completed Master of Divinity and Doctor of Ministry degrees at Virginia Union’s Samuel DeWitt Proctor School of Theology. “It was a commitment,” explains Baugham. “You set your priorities, deal with them first, and then other things come.”

When VUU Gifts Management Director Deborah Alston went back as far as the University’s computerized records were kept, she found that Baugham is one of only three individuals with consecutive giving records to VUU for such a lengthy period of time. “My gift from God is the spirit of giving,” Baugham adds. He and his wife Justine, whom he met at Virginia Union, joke about his strong desire to help others. “She says she’s going to come home one day and the house will be gone because I gave it away.”

But the survival of Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) is no laughing matter to Baugham. “I still want black youngsters to have that experience they can only get at an HBCU,” stresses Baugham. “An HBCU education speaks to the core of who you are as an individual. It speaks to your uniqueness as an African American. You need to know your heritage, how perfect your ancestors were, and how we arrived at this place.”

“Students today have many more options, but college is alien to many without role models to support them. HBCUs have a commitment to mentor students in a deeper manner. We have to do what we can to help the next generation keep moving ahead.”

Lillian Brown is shown on the right of Miss VUU (center) in 1956. Brown was first runner-up.

DR. LILLIAN BROWN

No one was surprised when Lillian Brown entered Virginia Union University (VUU) in 1953. Her father, Dr. Felix J. Brown, was a 1926 graduate of VUU and served on the Board of Trustees from 1955 to 1972. Lillian Brown walked to the VUU campus every day from her home in Richmond's North Side. "My parents were devoted to VUU and deeply appreciated all that it had done for them," Brown explains. She says she watched her father give financial assistance to others in the community so they could attend Virginia Union, so she just picked up where her father left off.

Dr. Lillian Brown has been donating to VUU every single year for the last 40 years. She is grateful for the preparation that Virginia Union provided. That strong foundation led her to earn a master's degree in social work from Columbia University in 1959 and a Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) from Rutgers University in 1981. "Virginia Union's teaching faculty was very supportive," she remembers. "Sociology Department Chair Dr. Henry McGuinn opened my eyes to a lot of options. He planted the seeds for me to get a master's degree." McGuinn graduated from VUU in 1922 and completed his doctoral studies at Columbia University. He taught at the University for 44 years.

Because of the support of Dr. McGuinn and other Virginia Union faculty, Dr. Lillian Brown decided to continue the legacy by spending more than 30 years in academia at City College in New York. She retired as Associate Dean for Academic Standards. "Being an academician was not on my radar screen as a young person," says Brown. "It turned out to be a wonderful experience. I enjoyed the changes you would see in students from freshman year on. The growth was impressive."

Brown says VUU prepared her well and she continues to support her alma mater financially and by recruiting students from New York because Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) are still critical to the success of the next generation. "I don't know why people talk about a post racial nation," Brown says. "We still have lots of obvious problems. Those of us lucky enough to get through segregation and have productive and successful lives need to pass that on. Students today have many more options, but college is alien to many without role models to support them. HBCUs have a commitment to mentor students in a deeper manner. We have to do what we can to help the next generation keep moving ahead."

A photograph of two men shaking hands outdoors. The man on the left is younger, with short dark hair, wearing a black polo shirt and black pants. The man on the right is older, with grey hair and glasses, wearing a dark suit jacket, a light blue shirt, and a patterned tie. They are standing in front of a building with white columns and a tall white tower in the background. There are pink flowers in the foreground on the left.

“Virginia Union strengthened me as a man. Even when I didn’t make the right decisions, there were still people there to ease me back on the right path. I feel the need to pay it forward.”

“The value of historically black colleges like Virginia Union is priceless. We must maintain the legacy, goals, and objectives of our HBCUs in order to provide our students the rich experience that only HBCUs provide.”

DR. MARSHALL BURGESS AND REV. MICHAEL MOORE

For Dr. Marshall Burgess and St. Mark Baptist Church in Maidens, Virginia, giving to Virginia Union (VUU) for nearly 50 years has been just as important as mentoring young graduates of VUU's Samuel Dewitt Proctor School of Theology. Burgess retired as pastor of St. Mark Baptist after 39 years of mentoring, but that hasn't stopped him from molding young pastors. "I'm so intentional now to stay active and support VUU because of his role model," says Rev. Michael Moore, the 29-year-old pastor of Mt. Vernon Baptist Church in Richmond, Virginia. "He continues the legacy."

Moore served as youth pastor at St. Mark Baptist while Burgess was pastor and Moore was still a student at Virginia Union. Because of Burgess' example and the legacy of Virginia Union graduates at Moore's church, Mt. Vernon Baptist, Moore knew it was important for him and his church to support Virginia Union. "After finishing my Master of Divinity degree at Virginia Union's Graduate School of Theology and becoming a pastor, it wasn't just important for me to give, but it was also important to create a community where we were investing in the future," explains Moore.

He points out that Mt. Vernon's rich Virginia Union legacy includes having renowned School of Theology Dean

Dr. John Kinney as youth pastor. "You have no choice but to give to VUU as a Richmond pastor," Moore adds. "You see first-hand the value of an HBCU education. Virginia Union strengthened me as a man. Even when I didn't make the right decisions, there were still people there to ease me back on the right path. I feel the need to pay it forward."

Burgess came to Virginia Union as a non-traditional student who had already been successful in more than one career. Nevertheless, he is still very mindful of the need to mold young African American minds. "The value of historically black colleges like Virginia Union is priceless, Burgess says. "We must maintain the legacy, goals, and objectives of our HBCUs in order to provide our students the rich experience that only HBCUs provide."

"We have to reach back," Moore adds. "You know there's a need and Virginia Union offers a great network. Find innovative ways to give. Incorporate it in your budget on a monthly basis." Moore not only continues the VUU legacy at his church, he and his wife Christy, whom he met at the School of Theology, have just ensured the continuation of the VUU family legacy with the birth of their son, Michael II. "I'm still developing and people are still constantly investing in me," says Moore. The Legacy Continues.....

THE LEGACY OF ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

VUU Student Judged Best at Scientific Conference

Virginia Union University Senior Nhat Le (pictured on the left) was recently awarded “Best Poster Presentation” at the American Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Conference. Le’s research was titled “Synthesis of Water-Stable-Material-Organic Framework at Room Temperature.” The mathematics, physics, and chemistry major will graduate in May of 2017 and hopes to pursue a Ph.D. in biomedical engineering.

Dr. Joy Lawson Davis

“I’m convinced that so many of our students (of color) are brilliant and they have missed out on opportunities in our public schools and even in private school settings because they weren’t perceived as being highly intelligent.”

VUU Professor Publishes Second Book on Gifted Children

Dr. Joy Lawson Davis, Associate Professor and Chair of the Department of Teacher Education at Virginia Union University, has published her second book dealing with minority children and gifted education. Gifted Children of Color Around the World: Diverse Needs, Exemplary Practices, and Directions for the Future is a collection of essays from international scholars who study gifted children. Subjects covered in the book include programming for gifted children in Peru, increasing efforts for Hispanic gifted children and families, teaching Native American gifted children, and an overview of gifted education in the Dominican Republic.

Dr. Davis’ chapter on finding talent in every community is closely related to her first book, Bright, Talented, and Black: A Guide for Families of African American Gifted Learners. “What we know is that children of color are not recommended for gifted programs at the same rate as white children,” Dr. Davis says. “In the last two years, three major studies have come out, one just a few weeks ago from New York University, that show white students are six times more likely to be referred to gifted programs than black students.”

Dr. Davis received a Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) in Educational Policy, Planning and Leadership with an Emphasis in Gifted Education from the College of William and Mary. She also holds a master’s degree in Gifted Education from William and Mary. For 35 years, she has worked to increase diversity in gifted programs throughout the country.

Dr. Davis counts 40 states with mandates and budgets for gifted services. She says parents need to find out about these programs in their local schools and refer their children to them. Waiting for teachers to refer them is not always the best option, she adds. “I’m convinced that so many of our students (of color) are brilliant and they have missed out on opportunities in our public schools and even in private school settings because they weren’t perceived as being highly intelligent,” adds Dr. Davis.

Her first book has information to help parents identify gifted children and provides parents with tips on becoming advocates for their gifted children, as well as options for gifted children outside of the public school system. Both books are available on Amazon.com.

Danielle Ebelle

VUU Student Named HBCU All-Star

Virginia Union University Senior Danielle Ebelle has been named to The White House Initiative on Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) 2016 HBCU All-Stars. The All-Stars, comprised of 73 students from 63 HBCUs, are recognized for their accomplishments in academics, leadership, and civic engagement.

“During the course of one academic school year, the 73 All-Stars will distinguish themselves as exemplars of the talent that HBCUs cultivate, and as noble ambassadors of their respective institutions,” says U.S. Secretary of Education John B. King Jr. “The Initiative is looking forward to working with this third class of All-Stars and is confident this opportunity will allow the Initiative to meaningfully connect with HBCU students and advance academic excellence at their schools.”

Over the next year, the students will serve as ambassadors by providing outreach opportunities and communicating with other students about the value of both education and the Initiative as a networking source. Using social media, relationships with community-based organizations, and sessions with industry professionals, the students will share proven practices that support opportunities for all young people to achieve their educational and career potential. They will also participate in the White House HBCU Week Conference, national and regional events, and webinars with Initiative staff and other professionals on a range of disciplines that support a spirit of engagement and personal and professional development.

“We’re looking forward to working with this new class of HBCU All Stars,” says Deputy Under Secretary of Education and Acting Executive Director White House Initiative on HBCUs Kim Hunter Reed. “Our goal is to provide a unique opportunity for these talented students that exposes them to critical national conversations and thought leaders. No doubt they will make their mark and represent their campuses well.”

The All-Stars were selected from over 300 students from 24 states, the District of Columbia, Ghana, Nigeria, and the Virgin Islands. They will work together as a group and network with one another to achieve their goals.

THE LEGACY OF LEADERSHIP

Virginia Union Welcomes New Members to Board of Trustees

Diane Leopold is president of Dominion Energy. She is responsible for more than 12,000 miles of interstate natural gas pipelines in eight states, 22,000 miles of distribution pipelines, 1.3 million natural gas customers, and one of the largest natural gas storage systems in the United States. Since joining Dominion in 1995, she has held leadership roles including operations, project management, business planning, commercial and financial management in several business units. She graduated from the University of Sussex in the United Kingdom in 1989 with a bachelor's degree in mechanical and electrical engineering. She received a master's degree in electrical engineering in 1993 from George Washington University and an MBA in 1998 from Virginia Commonwealth University.

William A. Royall, Jr. is the founder and former chairman of Royall & Company, the leading research-driven and technology-enabled direct marketing service to traditional, nonprofit colleges and universities. Royall & Company was acquired by The Advisory Board Company in January of 2015. Mr. Royall is president of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts Board of Trustees and campaign co-chair of the Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU) Institute of Contemporary Arts. He also served on the VCU Board of Visitors from 2011 to 2015, serving as vice-rector from 2013 to 2015. Mr. Royall served on the George Mason University Board of Trustees from 1978 through 1986. An alumnus of Virginia Commonwealth University, Mr. Royall was inducted into the Greater Richmond Hall of Fame in 2014.

Dr. Theron Williams has been pastor of the Mt. Carmel Church of Indianapolis, Indiana for more than 29 years. Under his leadership, the church has grown from less than 200 members to more than 3,000 members. He has led the church to complete three major building programs and an extensive facility renovation program. Mt. Carmel's Christian Education Ministry includes the Mt. Carmel Christian Academy, serving kindergarten through sixth grade. The pastor's emphasis on developing young people for Christ influenced the establishment of a power youth ministry, which has touched the lives of hundreds of young people in the community. Dr. Williams earned Bachelor of Arts and Master of Divinity degrees from Virginia Union University. He received his Doctor of Ministry degree from The Chicago Theological Seminary.

Tammy Cannon Lewis

“I want to make sure our student leaders know they can do all things. If they look at something and say they don’t have the credentials, I sit with them and figure out where they can get the training to do and be whatever they desire.”

“If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more, you are a leader,” according to our country’s sixth president, John Quincy Adams. There is no doubt among student leaders at Virginia Union University that Ms. Tammy Cannon Lewis fits the late president’s description. “She’s there for you when you need her,” says Mr. VUU Alphonso Ross. “She will give you the bad news and then help you develop a game plan to succeed anyway.”

Seeing her students succeed is a major component of the job for VUU Director of Student Activities and Leadership Tammy Cannon Lewis. “I want to make sure our student leaders know they can do all things,” Lewis explains. “If they look at something and say they don’t have the credentials, I sit with them and figure out where they can get the training to do and be whatever they desire. Challenges may come their way, but they can still do it.”

Lewis could write a book about challenges. She has fought breast cancer twice, once in 2001 and again in 2013. Because of the radiation and chemotherapy needed to survive the cancers, she suffered from heart failure in 2015. Doctors implanted a defibrillator under her skin to keep track of her heart rate and deliver an electric shock to restore a normal heart rate if needed. “My heart could stop at any time so I live life fully every day,” says Lewis. “God is giving me strength to get up and go. A lot of people didn’t make it, but I did.”

The director holds leadership development classes with members of the Virginia Union Royal Court, the Student Government Association, sororities, fraternities, and other student organizations. She also offers a First and Second Year Academy for freshmen and sophomores. They study self-awareness, communication, critical thinking, team building, and problem solving.

“It’s not easy being a leader,” Lewis explains. “I tell my students you have to emulate what you want others to be. You can’t please everyone. Sometimes you’re out front by yourself.” Difficulties aside, her students have accepted the challenge and they are giving it their all. “I have resources here that I never thought I would have,” says Student Government Association President Nyla Thornton. “I want people to know that this is a place that can help you grow as a person and as a leader.”

Virginia Union University Student Leaders

Student Government Association President

Nyla Thornton is a junior mass communications major from Baltimore, Maryland. She holds a 3.6 grade point average and has participated in many campus organizations, including the Virginia Union University Honors Program, Rah-Rah Cheering Squad, Destiny's Daughters, and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. She aspires to a career as an on-air television or radio personality.

Miss Virginia Union University

LaRae Gilliard is a senior religious studies major from New Haven, Connecticut. She has served Virginia Union as a Resident Assistant, a Young Life Volunteer Leader, a member of the VUU Rah Rahs, and a member of the VUU Choir. Following graduation in May of 2017, she plans on attending graduate school at Georgetown University, or pursuing a dual degree with Virginia Commonwealth University and Virginia Union's Samuel DeWitt Proctor School of Theology.

Mr. Virginia Union University

Alphonso Ross is a senior criminal justice major from the Bronx, New York. During his tenure at Virginia Union, he has been active as vice president of the VUU Pre-Law Society, treasurer of the VUU NAACP chapter, a student orientation leader, a member of the pre-alumni council and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. He was also selected as Mr. Huntley Hall, and Mr. Junior. He is currently applying to law schools in Washington, D.C. and plans to become a criminal defense attorney.

National Urban League President to Speak at VUU Community Leaders Breakfast

Marc Morial, President and CEO of the National Urban League, has been confirmed as the speaker for Virginia Union University's Community Leaders Breakfast on January 13, 2017. With a distinguished professional career spanning 25 years, Morial is considered one of the most accomplished servant-leaders in the nation. The former mayor of New Orleans, Louisiana has led the National Urban League since 2003. During his tenure, the League has had considerable fundraising success, raising $280 million over five years. Due to Morial's creativity, initiatives such as the Urban Youth Empowerment Program and Entrepreneurship Centers have been created to assist young adults in securing sustainable jobs and grow small businesses in 10 cities across the U.S.

Under his stewardship, the League launched a historic $100 million, five-year "Jobs Rebuild America: Educate, Employ, Empower" initiative in 2013 – a solutions-based, comprehensive approach to the nation's employment and education crisis that brings together federal government, business, and nonprofit resources to create economic opportunity in 50 cities across the country through the Urban League affiliate network.

As mayor of New Orleans, Morial was part of a multi-racial coalition that led New Orleans' 1990's renaissance. He left office with a 70 percent approval rating. At age 26, he was one of the youngest lawyers to argue and win a major case before the Louisiana Supreme Court. As a professor, Morial served on the adjunct faculty of Xavier University in Louisiana, where he taught Constitutional Law and Business Law.

This is the 39th year for Virginia Union's Community Leaders Breakfast, which honors the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. It takes place at 7:30 am and will be held in the Claude G. Perkins Living and Learning Center. Tickets are $50, with sponsorships available. Please call (804)342-3938 for more information or purchase tickets at www.vuu.edu.

CONTINUE THE LEGACY VIRGINIA UNION UNIVERSITY CHANGES LIVES

Use the envelope provided with this magazine to make an unrestricted gift of a one-time scholarship, or designate your gift to a specific school or program.

There are many options for giving:

- An endowment gift of $25,000 paid over a 5-year-period will set up a permanent fund. Interest from the fund will be paid as a student scholarship named in your honor or in honor of a loved one.
- You can make a legacy gift through planned giving. Vehicles include wills, insurance policies, stocks, and annuities.
- If you work for a company that matches donations, your gift to VUU can be significantly increased. Simply obtain a matching gift form from your personnel office, follow the instructions for initiating the match, and send the completed form to VUU's Office of Institutional Advancement with your gift.

For additional information about giving options, please call (804) 342-3938 or visit www.vuu.edu and click on "Institutional Advancement."
